PAGEANT WILL BOOST NORTH MISSISSIPPI

Grenada and Other Towns to Elect Girls to Contest for Title of "Miss North Mississippi" at Pageant to Be Held Here on July 4th.

The North Mississippi Fair Association is preparing to present a pageant boosting the resources and possibilities of North Mississippi at the Grenada fair grounds Thursday, July 4th, at 8 o'clock p. m.

North Mississippi in the last few years has grows by leaps and bounds. Today, what was yesterday worn out cotton fields and dilapidated little towns, gone to seed, is now one of the most prosperous districts in the state of Mississippi. Dairying and dairy products, rotation of crops, pure bred live stock, good schools, churches, cooperation of bankers and farmers, have all lent their aid to make this particular section the coming "Garden of Eden" and the North Mississippi Pageant is being presented to show, not what can be done but what has already been accomplished

Money and time will not be spared to put this venture over the top and every loyal citizen of Grenada and surrounding towns should give it their utmost support. Grenada, Water Valley, Winona, Coffeeville, Holcomb, Duck Hill, Bruce, Tie Plant, Calhoun City, Batesville and Oakland will elect young ladies to represent their respective communities at the pageant where "Miss Mississippi" will be elected by applause to reign as queen.

"Miss North Mississippi" will be a typical North Mississippi girl, a young woman that embodies all those traits and characteristics that go to make up the kind of girl one would desire as a daughter or sister. The Grenada Theatre will elect "Miss Grenada" in a contest beginning June 10th and running through June 30th, the winner being announced at the theatre Monday night, July 1st. Nomination blanks may be obtained at Dyre-Kent's and at the Grenada Theatre and anyone is at liberty and invited to nominate the girl of his choice.

Besides the honor of reigning as queen, "Miss North Mississippi" will receive a medal upon which her name will be engraved together with the date and the title of queen. The other representatives will act as attendants to the queen, honors second only to that of the reigning majesty.

The pageant will undoubtedly be one of the greatest boosts North Mississippi has received in years. In play form there will be unfolded to the public the things that are placing this part of Mississippi on the map. Health, Climate, Beauty, Education, Religion, Patriotism, Farming, Manufacturing, Dairying, Lumber Milling, in fact everything will be displayed in an interesting and instructive manner to what is hoped will be the largest crowd ever gathered together at the Grenada fair grounds.

A chorus of 24 girls, representative beauties of Grenada and surrounding territory will be the spice of the program giving in the poetry of motion and music messages of welcome to the state and community. It is hoped that the pageant will prove that North Mississippi has thrown down its hammer and placed her shoulder to the wheel—that it has quit knocking and gone to boosting with a will and when a community does this, something is bound to happen. The musical numbers alone will be worth coming miles to see, besides the programs put on by the different schools, colleges, churches, hospitals, manufacturers, dairymen, etc., of this section of the state.

The Rotary Clubs of the various towns are being invited to lend their assistance to the making of this pageant the big boost that is needed to start the ball of prosperity rolling. With the help of these and other clubs throughout North Mississippi the pageant is due to be a great success. Talent is being obtained from all parts of the district to be used in staging this play.

NAME NOT ON INVITATIONS

Through a regrettable error, probably typographical, the name of Charles Edward Lockett, Jr. was omitted from the list of graduates printed on the invitations of Millsaps College this year. The printing of the invitations was left entirely in the hands of the senior class and the error is not chargeable to college officials.

Lockett made such an excellent record in his studies that he was exempted from examinations in all his work, an achievement of which he has every right to feel proud.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lockett, of Grenada, and his parents left the first of the week for Jackson to attend the Millsaps commencement exercises at which their son received his degree.

MINISTER MAKES ADDRESS TO GRENADA ROTARY CLUB

Dr. J. A. Smith, Methodist minister of Hattiesburg who is in Grenada conducting a ten days' meeting at the Methodist church, addressed the Grenada Rotary Club at its meeting Tuesday at noon. The speaker announced that his subject would be "the possibilities of the present opportunity" and in the limited time at his disposal he brought out some very interesting points. He said that instead of dreaming of the future or recalling events of the past, men should give more thought to the present as what is done with opportunities as they present themselves counts for much in one's life. He said that in every business, trade or profession there is a broad field for advancement and that one's success depends largely upon how he recognizes these possibilities and takes advantage of them. Dr. Smith told how fear depresses one and how it affects his personality and he illustrated this by citing the fear that obsessed Moses after he slew the Egyptian taskmaster. He related the incident of God addressing Moses from the burning bush when He told him to remove his shoes because he was standing on "holy ground". This Biblical reference he made to bring home the fact how little mankind realizes the presence of God always and everywhere and that the "present moment" contains many possibilities.

Close attention was given the speaker and what he had to say was enjoyed by those who heard him.

Other guests Tuesday were Rev. J. H. Holder, of Grenada, F. G. Oldrich, of East St. Louis, Ill., Dr. J. P. Broadstreet, of Duck Hill, Dr. Alfred Hume, chancellor of the state university, and Rotarian D. L. Fair, of Louisville, Miss.

Neglect Education For Outside Duties

Chief Justice and Former President Taft Thinks Extracurriculum Duties Carried to Extreme and Curriculum Should Be Simpler.

Washington—William Howard Taft, Chief Justice of the United States and former President, recently told delegates to the convention of his college fraternity, Psi Upsilon, that in his opinion extracurriculum duties were "carried to a great extreme," and that "we must get our public and private schools down to a simpler curriculum."

The jurist who makes speeches only on rare occasions, joked with his audience which included Secretary of State Stimson, Senators Bingham, Goff, Moses, Sackett and Walcott, and others prominent in official circles. He struck a serious note on the "slump" in scholarship, however, explaining that "the war played havoc with a great many conceptions and we haven't gotten over it yet.

"There has been a good deal said about the law standard of scholarship shown in the comparative tables of college fraternities," he said, "and it really, to those who are deeply interested, is a source of the greatest anxiety. I was delighted to hear that the zero point had been reached and that we were going up on the other side. Certainly we ought to."

The Chief Justice observed that many students went to school "for social reasons," and sometimes "to establish themselves by reason of the fact that they are called college men."

Terming this situation a "dreadful waste," he added, "when a man grows as old as I have, he then feels like resorting to profanity, as he ought not to do at the misconception of life and the use of education and the use of universities by these feather-headed young men that don't look ahead to know the opportunities they have and to appreciate those opportunities".

Speaking of "strange words" used in educational vocabulary, most freely by "recent graduates of normal schools," he said, "I am very certain that were they called upon to define in any way by which anybody else could understand, what they mean, there would be a stir in educational circles. The trouble now is the superficial nature of what we are trying to teach and we must get our public schools and our private schools down to a similar curriculum so that when we know a thing we know it."

Time and Money Wasted

"I don't want to criticise athletics or a great many extra-curriculum duties," he added, "but I think there is a great deal of time and money wasted in those things which many of you most enjoy."

Secretary Stimson, who was Secretary of War in the cabinet of the ex-President and later occupied the post of Governor General of the Philippines, which the Chief Justice once held, paid tribute to his former chief.

Ole Miss Chancellor Talks To Graduates

Dr. Alfred Hume, Chancellor State University, Makes Commencement Address at Grenada College — New Things Planned for School.

The nineteenth year of the presidency of Dr. J. R. Countiss of Grenada College ended Tuesday morning with the commencement exercises which consisted of the baccalaureate address by Chancellor Alfred Hume of the state university and the delivery of the diplomas to 28 graduates, twenty-five of whom were given the degree of A. B.

The annual sermons Sunday morning and evening were delivered by Dr. J. A. Smith of Hattiesburg. Dr. Smith's text Sunday morning, followed by his sermon elicited much favorable comment. His text was, "What think ye of Christ?". It was a most eloquent appeal to the young ladies of the college, particularly, to study the life and character of Christ and to make him the guiding star of their life.

Dr. Hume was greeted by a large audience Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock when he arose to make his address. If one is to judge by the unusual applause and the continued hand clapping, the audience showed that it had a high appreciation of the chancellor as an educator and as a man.

Dr. Hume held before his audience the cardinal virtues of faith, honesty and dependability, emphasizing most the last. He greeted womanhood, he said, on the new fields upon which they have entered, yet he could have left no doubt in the minds of any one that he felt that the safety of society, the government and the perpetuity of the Christian religion depended not upon what woman did as an educator, nor in the business world but upon what she did as wife and mother. He stated to the graduates that he hoped every one of them would have a home to preside over.

Dr. Countiss followed Chancellor Hume and emphasized many of the things that Dr. Hume had said in what he stated was his "last talk to you graduates as college students".

Dr. Countiss stated that the session just closing was the most pleasant and delightful that the college had ever had since he became its president. He congratulated the young women on their excellent conduct and stated that it meant a very great deal to be able to deal with people who are dependable. He briefly sketched the history of the college and stated that 300 graduates had gone out from the college since he became its president, and that only one of that number had passed to the other world and that he knew the whereabouts of all the others save one. Of all the girls who had attended the college since he became president, all but one had made a profession of religion. He said that he felt that he had every reason to feel happy over what the college had been able to do in the way of religious training, and that, according to his way of thinking, the kind of life one lives is far more important than how much the mind is trained. Mr. Countiss said that it was his purpose and that of the board of trustees and his co-laborers to come as nearly making the college take the place of the good home as possible, however, he said that no school or college or any church could take the place of the home in the training of young life for right living and for getting young people to trust their Maker as he desires to be trusted.

Dr. Countiss announced that the $300,000. endowment, authorized by the last annual conference, meant a great deal to the college, and that it had been decreed that no part of this three hundred thousand should go into buildings but that it was to be invested and the interest therefrom used to bring the college to the highest standards demanded by the educational world.

He announced that the board of trustees had just adjourned, and that it had been determined to make one, and maybe several, men members of the faculty for the next session. His announcement that the trustees had planned to give the students for the next session a modern gymnasium was generously applauded, and it is understood that a natatorium is also to be a part of the new things projected.

Dr. Countiss expressed his high appreciation of local patronage, and stated that every girl student who was graduated from one of the high schools of the county last year enrolled in Grenada College.

It is generally understood that Grenada regards Grenada College as its greatest asset in many ways. The educational spirit is so dominant in Grenada, a fact that many credit largely to Grenada College, that it has caused the non-resident critically minded to say that "Grenada regards herself as a second Athens."

Dr. Countiss was born and reared in Calhoun County, and on the farm. He is very properly regarded as one of the ablest of the ministry of the Methodist church of Mississippi. He has most satisfactorily demonstrated his tact and his ability as a college president. He takes nothing for granted but endeavors, just as far as he possibly can, to know about and understand every problem that confronts the college.

He has been more than fortunate in having Miss Corrinne Laney, and others equally talented, in his faculty. Miss Laney is the dean, and well does she discharge the duties that come to her. In addition to her executive duties, she is instructor in Latin, and the high school men of the state have learned that no college anywhere turns out better trained Latin students than does Grenada College. It may be truthfully said that Miss Laney knows her Latin from Alpha to Omega.

Grenada will miss the college girls,—there are some who will miss them acutely,—and hopes that when the fall session opens to not only see all freshmen, sophomores and juniors among the students for next year, but that they will make sure to secure as many additional as are necessary to fill to overflowing every room in the dormitories.

COMPLIMENTS FORMER GRENADA YOUTH

A recent issue of the Greenwood Commonwealth contained a very complimentary notice of the Price James Company, Inc., insurance agency of that city. Price James is a son of Mr. L. B. James, a former citizen of Grenada, and The Sentinel feels that there are many of its readers who are pleased to hear such highly complimentary things of Mr. James.

TAKEN FOR INTRUDER, LLOYD LOTT WOUNDED

Youth, Delivering Circulars Tuesday Night, Shot by W. H. Crowder—Lott Expected to Recover—Crowder Expresses Regret Over Unfortunate Occurrence.

Lloyd Lott, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lott, is in Grenada Hospital suffering from gunshot wounds in the right hip and left leg inflicted at 10:45 p. m. Tuesday by W. H. Crowder, 67, who mistook the youth for an intruder. Young Lott was delivering advertising matter for a local business house and had just deposited a circular on the porch of the Crowder home. The shot was fired just as he reached the curb returning to the sidewalk. It is thought that the wounds, although they are serious, will not prove fatal unless complications develop.

Mr. Crowder is deeply affected by the unfortunate affair and has expressed the deepest regret over his mistake. He is a member of one of the county's most prominent families and has been for many years closely identified with local politics. He is now serving as county tax assessor, has served two terms as sheriff, several times as deputy sheriff, and has held other offices. He has been in ill health for a number of years.

Young Lott received his diploma only last Friday from Grenada High School. He not only made an excellent record in his studies but he was one of the school's best athletes, starring on both the gridiron and the diamond. He was popular among his fellow students and is regarded as one of Grenada's brightest and most promising young men. The entire community shares with his family their anxiety over his condition and the deepest sympathy is generally expressed for the members of both families involved.

MAY RAINFALL 2.67 INCHES

The weather for May up to the 30th was one of surprises, yet when the record for years past is reviewed there has not been a very marked variation for the month from the average.

The total rainfall for Grenada for the month has been 2.67 inches. It rained on eleven different days of the month as follows: May first, .51; fifth, .08; sixth, .09; ninth, .05; eleventh, .30; fourteenth, .03; sixteenth, .03; seventeenth, .17; twenty-seventh, .76 and twenty-eighth, .45.

Maybe there are many with the idea that there has been far above the normal in rainfall for the month; this is caused by the fact that there were so many cloudy days and so many showers. It may be worth while to note that the average temperature of the whole state for April was, 67.7 degrees; the highest average for any day of April was 95 and the lowest 37. The total average rainfall for the state for April, was 4.99; the highest rainfall, beginning with the year 1888, for April was in 1900 when the total was 11.18 inches; the next highest year was, 10.34 with 1920 and 1921 running close seconds with 9.48 and 9:45 respectively. The highest monthly total rainfall for April was 8.58 inches at Booneville; Jackson showed the heaviest rainfall for one day during the month when the total was 3.48 inches.

38 Are Graduated From Grenada High

Diplomas Awarded at Friday Night Exercises—Prof. W. N. Taylor Substitutes for Dr. J. R. Countiss as Baccalaureate Speaker.

Friday night of last week, commencement exercises of Grenada High School were held. Diplomas were awarded 38 graduates, twenty-five ladies and thirteen young men, thus again furnishing an example of young women sticking through the twelve grades and many boys dropping out.

The graduates were a fine looking group. They gave every indication of knowing the seriousness of the task that lies before them in meeting the world on terms which it makes, yet they were radiant of countenance and optimistic in appearance, and they had every reason to be full of zeal and of that prudence that the training of the mind always gives.

The annual address was delivered by Prof. W. N. Taylor, general secretary of the state teachers association and state senator from Hinds County. His theme was the "dominance of the intellect".

Mr. Taylor came to Grenada as a supply for Dr. J. R. Countiss, who had accepted the invitation to make the baccalaureate address but who, almost at the last minute, was compelled to ask to be relieved on account of illness. When it was decided that it would be imprudent and unwise for Dr. Countiss to speak, which was the day before, Prof. Rundle called for Mr. Taylor over the phone, and he consented to come and be a substitute. Thus it will be seen that Prof. Taylor had but little time to make preparations. Nevertheless he acquitted himself well. If he was bothered any time during his address by the persistent conversation indulged in among some of those in the gallery, he did not show it.

The Sentinel dislikes to mention the little breaches of courtesy that are almost always committed through thoughtlessness, but it does think that those who attend public places where a speech is to be made, and especially by an invited guest from another town, that that is the time for auditors to keep silent. The writer of these lines was embarrassed for the town and regretted the incident for the sake of the good name of the school. Somebody has said that "a very few geese can do a lot of cackling"—but there were no geese in the gallery. But all this by way of parenthesis, and for the sake of Grenada and her splendid citizenship.

Back to Prof. Taylor's address: He had evidently framed what he intended to say and did say mainly for the graduates. He endeavored to drive home the idea that the trained mind must and will control. He said that this had always been true, that it was true today. He said that those who went in a slipshod way through school with their minds engaged more in the delusions and illusions of life, were destined to awake some glorious morning to find themselves left behind that great procession whose minds enable them to measure circumstances and events by what had been done. He said that those who thought the arm, the leg or any other part of the body from the shoulders down, could achieve more of the worth while in life, were riding to that defeat that never fails to come to the unequipped. But even, Mr. Taylor averred, if it be by the muscle that one sought to make his way through life, he must labor and sweat to do that. He cited some of the leading pugilists of the world and some of the renowned ball players as proof of his declaration that whatever was done in a worth while way came of work, persistent work, and by profiting by the experience and the observation of others in the same line. He cited Dr. Jenner, who discovered the preventive power of vaccination, as a man who used his mind by day and by

OXBERRY CITIZEN DIED

Mr. J. Henry Yarborough died at his home, known as the "old Crump home", on Friday, May 24, and his remains were laid to rest in the Bethel church burying ground the next day after funeral services by Rev. W. J. Wood, pastor of the Methodist church at Holcomb and several other charges on that circuit.

Mr. Yarborough was born in Choctaw county but had been a resident of the community where he died for years. He was a hard working man and lived according to the best lights before him. In the years ago he joined the Methodist church. He was unpretentious and was not the owner of much of this world's goods. Those who had the best opportunity to know him say that he was honest and just in all things—a higher tribute could hardly be paid him.

Mr. Yarborough is survived by a wife and several children to whom The Sentinel tenders sympathy.

Points To Reasons For Planting Feed

W. C. Curle, Farm Development Association Representative, Shows Urgency of Feed Crops—Dairy Products Prices Holding Up Well.

Editor Sentinel:

May I have space again this week to state a few facts about dairying and dairy products?

That the dairy industry has enjoyed relatively favorable conditions since the World War is shown by the fact that the farm price of butter and milk has averaged slightly higher than the retail price of commodities farmers buy. This position is in decided contrast with that held by most other farm products. Although the output of butter and other dairy products has increased in recent years, the consumption has increased also.

It is worth noting that farm prices of dairy products in New York and Minnesota, two important dairy regions, have been appreciably higher than the average price for the United States. Mississippi, a deficit state, and Nebraska, a surplus state, have had prices lower than the United States average.

Quality of production and marketing efficiency are factors in these regional differences. Recently there was a difference of about five cents per pound in the

"THE BROADWAY MELODY" ACCORDED HIGH PRAISE

The much-heralded and long-awaited "The Broadway Melody" is scheduled to open at the Grenada Theatre June 4th at 11:30 p. m. This is Metro-Goldwyn Mayer's first all-talking, all-singing, all-dancing production, and those who hold the destinies of M-G-M in the palms of their hands promise new novelties in their initial hear and see "opera."

Word comes from the camera capital and from Broadway, New York, where the film has already been released, that "The Broadway Melody" is entitled to a couple of "supers" prefixing the familiar word "production." When a picture can make hard-boiled Hollywood and New York give a few loud British cheers, it's apt to find its way onto moviegoers' "don't miss" list.

Bessie Love, pertest of picture players, has the leading feminine role, with Anita Page, the youngster who scored in "Our Dancing Daughters," prominent in the supporting cast. The male love interest is supplied by Charles King, a musical comedy recruit.

If "what's in a name?" is to be the query, "The Broadway Melody" has a list of "celebs" connected with it that resembles a gathering at a debutante's coming-out party.

James Gleason, cleverest of wise-crackers, and Arthur Freed take just credit for the smart dialogue, and Harry Beaumont wielded the megaphone. The story employs "Tin Pan Alley" and the stage as fascinating settings, and, by the way, if you're fond of theme songs, there'll be three of 'em in this picture. There are sequences done in technicolor, and plenty of glorified girls are brought in to add pep and zest to the chorus numbers. Indeed, if proper attention to production counts for anything, "The Broadway Melody" is destined to be the biggest hit of the cinema season.

"The Broadway Melody" will be shown in Grenada for the first time in Mississippi, this paper is informed. That fact is quite a tribute to the enterprise of the management and further proves the truth of the theatre's motto, "Our Service—The Pride of Grenada'".

The first showing of the picture will be at 11:30 p. m. next Tuesday at a "midnight matinee". This is quite an innovation for Grenada and its novelty no doubt will appeal to many. Free refreshments will be served by the theatre on that occasion.

"The Broadway Melody" will be shown through next Saturday and all lovers of good pictures should not fail to see it.

METHODIST REVIVAL IS NOW IN PROGRESS

Dr. J. A. Smith, of Hattiesburg, Conducting Meeting at Methodist Church — Commencement Season Interferes with Start of Revival.

The revival services being conducted at the Methodist church by Dr. J. A. Smith, pastor of the Methodist church at Hattiesburg, is beginning to arouse that interest that the true proclamation of the word of God should always do.

There have been a number of things that have served to prevent large congregations thus far. The public school and Grenada College commencements have kept the major part of many families on the go and very naturally, after the closing of the schools, people just feel that they are entitled to and need a rest.

This is a strenuous age. There are so many things that are worth while and that mankind feels are factors for the betterment of the world which need attention and attendance, that one is at a loss at times to know what he should do and what is best to be done—whether to rest his physical being and take some time to read and digest some of the much good reading matter, or to go at every demand. Hence it happens that many sincerely religious people feel compelled at times to absent themselves from church services.

The ministry is made up of those who are supposed to keep ever uppermost in their minds the things of God and the winning of souls for his kingdom. Their "business" is shepherding those of their fold, and fortunate has been, and is today, the world that godly men and women have ever been on the job. But for the good ministry rather punching men up, reminding them of the better things of life, and by their energy, prayers and ability getting men's minds away from the everyday affairs and onto things spiritual, that which is best and which will reach its greatest effulgence when that home is occupied which Jesus said he was going away to make ready would never be realized.

The church was established by God. He has said that it had pleased him to establish the plan of saving the world by the "foolishness of preaching", and regardless of who may preach, it is rare indeed that any minister ever goes behind the sacred desk who does not know more of the Bible than 80 per cent of his congregation. If there is anything hindering the proper growth of the church and the realization of that faith God would have established and lived by his children, it is that too many worth while citizens, who are "members of the church", are leaving the study of the Bible to the preachers. Too many are practicing what the old man practiced who got the Lord's prayer written off for him and stuck it on his bed post and when retiring time came, pointed to it and said, "Lord them's my sentiments".

As already stated, the services were broken into Sunday, Monday and Tuesday by the commencement exercises at the college, so it was that many did not seem to be thinking about the meeting until Wednesday night.

Dr. Smith is a scholarly man. He is in earnest. His sermon Wednesday night was one that gripped his congregation and caused those who think seriously to realize with unusual force what it means to save souls, and the sorrow and the bleeding of the heart that comes of neglect of prayer and those finer duties that connect with the glory of God and the true happiness of the world.

Rev. J. H. Holder, the faithful pastor, is aglow with what he hopes as a result of the services. Mr. Holder is more concerned about getting men and women to square their lives with God's plans than he is about the growth of his church or about many other things that becloud at the present time the vision of those things that God's finger is writing in the skies of the day.

It is announced that the services will extend from day to day possibly through next week. The pastor and congregation extend a most cordial invitation to everybody to attend.

WE WERE CORRECT—GASOLINE SOLD FOR 9c

Some few weeks ago we made a brief editorial reference to gasoline having just been sold in Memphis for 9 cents per gallon. The statement was questioned. We have an official communication which states that gasoline did sell for 9 cents and that the purchase was two carloads. Of course the city did escape the tax, but there is a very wide difference between even fourteen cents (9 cents plus state tax of 5 cents) and what we are paying in Mississippi, 24 cents. There must be a helluva profit somewhere up the line. The local dealer makes only about three cents profit, we are advised, and we think correctly.

The Standard Oil Co. sets the price pace. The others dance when the John D. interests play the fiddle. The price in Mississippi went up 1 cent per gallon this week. John D. must be getting ready to make a big church donation or to bait still further some of the great educational institutions of the country with some of his banefully earned gains.

Even Mississippi is trying her hand at trust-making on a small scale.

The "trust busters" are all asleep these days or are "gettin their'n". Where, oh, where is the spirit of Teddy Roosevelt? There seems to be no one ready to follow the path Teddy made.

DR. HUME SHOULD REMAIN.

Dr. Hume should remain as chancellor of the State University. He is an educator. He is a Christian gentleman. He is a high class citizen in every respect and has ably and worthily served the university in several different capacities for a quarter of a century. He was vice chancellor during the chancellorship of both of his immediate predecessors, Kincannon and Powers. He worked most acceptably with both these gentlemen, and we are not overstating it when we say that Chancellor Powers had the good judgment to make Dr. Hume his right hand man.

If Gov. Bilbo's friends will advise him properly, and if he will hearken unto their advice, he will let up on talk about removing Chancellor Hume. It is our judgment that the removal of Dr. Hume would be a thorn in the flesh of Bilbo's administration. It would be a mistake difficult to rectify even for his administration.

However, it is our guess that even if the Governor tries, he will fail. If all the members of the board of trustees are present, the vote will stand 6 to 4 in favor of Dr. Hume's retention is our guess.

The law fixing the terms of the general board of trustees of the colleges was passed during the Brewer administration. It was the first time in the history of the state that the terms of all members of the board of trustees did not expire at one time. The law enacted, and which is still operative, provides that the terms of the trustees to begin with should be for 2, 4 and 6 years, and thereafter for six years each. We had some little to do with writing this law. Under its provisions an incoming governor does not at once get political control of the general college board of trustees.

MOTOR BUS TRANSPORTATION.

We have always found ourselves in alignment with progress; with everything tending to improve what we have and give the public every convenience which the age provides.

We have never stood in the way of what is better.

We have ever contended for what is good; what the world at large enjoys, is not too good for Mississippi.

We were among the first advocates of improved highways and are among the most insistent advocates of the continued construction and maintenance of good roads. We are not inimical to motor transportation; bus lines. But—

A law has just passed the Tennessee Legislature "giving exclusive franchise to favored motor bus interests free of charge and providing that no revenue collected from these vehicles shall go to the state treasury." This is unjust to the state and unjust to the railroads operating in competition with the bus lines.

The highways belong to the state; have been constructed at great expense on the part of the state. The cost of maintenance falls on the state. Why should any corporation be allowed the unrestricted use of these highways without sharing in the cost of construction or upkeep? They draw a revenue and escape expense.

It will not do to say that they are a great public convenience. The railroads are a great public convenience; greater by far as developing agencies than bus lines can ever be. They are collectively the greatest tax payers in the state. One road alone, the Illinois Central, is the largest single tax payer in Mississippi. It does not seem fair to charter any company which will greatly reduce their income from the passenger service, but which cannot take their place as freight transportation agencies. Nor does it seem fair that they should be permitted to operate without cost over highways from which they draw immense revenue, but whose upkeep is a charge upon the resources, the income of the state.

It seems to us that should permission to operate be given, which we don't by any means oppose, they should be required to pay their share of the taxes of the state. They should be taxed on their vehicles just as railroads are, and they should be taxed for the privilege of doing business just as any firm, corporation or individual doing business for profit in the state is required to do.—Yazoo City Sentinel.

We see no good reason for waiting until 1930 to enact legislation to begin permanent hard surfaced road construction, provided, of course, the legislature is called in session. The sooner it is begun the sooner will dividends begin to be realized on savings in automobiles and especially in tires.

THE 1929 "BLUE BOOK OF SOUTHERN PROGRESS"

The Sentinel has received the 1929 edition of the "Blue Book of Southern Progress" issued by the Manufacturers Record of Baltimore. The Manufacturers Record has been issuing such a publication for a number of years. The edition for this year is one of the best we have ever seen. It contains a vast array of comparative data, data invaluable to the student of economics and to the business man and others who desire to keep anywhere near abreast of the financial affairs of the country.

The Manufacturers Record has been an out and out protective tariff publication for years and its editor seems to think that now it is about ready to drive its southern sheep, figuratively speaking, into the sheepfold of a protective tariff—a place that has proved to be a veritable slaughter pen for the South.

This socalled protective tariff has been the means of so centering the wealth of the Nation in manufacturing states that two of them own 15 per cent of the wealth of the whole United States. That's good for that section but is a devil of a load on the South and thirty other states of the Union.

But on reading and studying the "Blue Book of Southern Progress", the reader must think for himself. He who turns his thinker over to some one else is in a fair way to soon need a vacuum cleaner.

SOME THINGS "BLUE BOOK" SHOWS

Among the many things which the 1929 edition of the Baltimore Manufacturers Record "Blue Book of Southern Progress", shows is:

That the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, W. Virginia, Delaware, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin constitute but 14 per cent of the total area of the United States and yet they own 50 per cent of the total wealth of the country;

That New York and Pennsylvania constitute but three-tenths of one per cent of the total area of the country, yet they own 15 per cent of the total wealth of the country;

That the total area of 15 southern states—Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and Oklahoma is 30 per cent of the Nation's total area and that the total wealth of these fifteen states is but 20 per cent of the total wealth of the country;

That the total assessments of the southern group of states average 42 per cent of their estimated property values. The prorata assessments, according to estimated wealth, are: Alabama 33 per cent; Arkansas 22 per cent; Florida 25 per cent; Georgia 31 per cent; Kentucky 83 per cent; Louisiana 48 per cent; Maryland 73 per cent; Mississippi 33 per cent; Missouri 48 per cent; North Carolina 60 per cent; Oklahoma 41 per cent; South Carolina 13 per cent; Tennessee 38 per cent; Texas 38 per cent; Virginia 50 per cent; West Virginia 42 per cent and Missouri 47 per cent.

JUST SPENDING AND SPENDING.

We are traveling at an enormous rate of speed. We are rolling in luxuries, many of which were bought "on credit" or on the "installment plan", one of the most baneful and blood sucking business practices that was ever foisted on a people.

It does seem to us that out of all the men and the women running up and down the country to tell people what to do and how to do, there would be some who would undertake the task of making the public understand what a master debt is and what it means to old age to "drink and be merry", and to practice the doctrine contained in the words, "Come day, go day, God send Sunday". But then true economy would deprive some of these specialists, advice givers, of a job, hence they teach to buy as a mass and trust to the morrow.

Prior to the World War, Belgium was known as a country without paupers. It is said that of the ten million voters in France, nine million are owners of government securities.

There are said to be over 12 million savings accounts in France, and that half of these are very small, less than $4. Only about 1 in 10 of our people have savings accounts. The rest of us buy on the "installment plan".

SAFETY SUGGESTIONS FOR AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS.

It is generally agreed that something must be done and that some steps will soon be taken to protect automobile drivers against themselves and to protect other motorists and pedestrians against reckless autoists.

In the first place, no one under 16 years of age should be allowed to drive a car.

Automobile drivers should be required to demonstrate their ability and expertness to handle a car and should be required to pay a license not to cost over one dollar. Where there are two or more members of a family in the same community who drive cars, a family license could be issued not to cost over $2.00.

When an autoist hits another car, or gets into a wreck for which the facts and circumstances show him to be responsible, his license to drive should be suspended for 30 days. For a second similar offense, suspension of 60 days and for a third like offense, 90 days, and for a fourth offense, license revoked never to be again issued unless proper proof is made of greater care and caution in driving a car.

One found guilty of driving a car when under the influence of liquor to the point where he will abandon common sense, due care and caution, should be not only fined not less than $50. but his license to drive should be annulled.

A few other similar stitches in our traffic laws will serve to enforce common sense driving and a greater regard for the rights of others.

We are inclined to the view that the lower house of the Mississippi legislature feels about a permanent road building law about like Lincoln felt about the war when a certain conference was projected. Lincoln said, "Let me write Union into the agreement and you can put in almost anything else". The majority of the lower house, we feel, holds that if it can write "elect the commissioners and guard well expenditures and then the Governor and others with their views can write the other provisions".

If we were advising the Governor, we would tell him that the legislature should not be called in session until "crops are laid by". We rather suspect that if Huey Long were spending his opinion, he would say "no more special sessions".

We note from the press that the reason assigned by President Bennett, of the state teachers college at Hattiesburg, for the non-retention of Dr. W. T. Lowrey and Miss Kate Brown, is that he wants more Ph. D's, in the college. Many educational crimes are being committed at the present day because of Ph. D's, and other kinds of p's and d's. There are some people who are so loaded with phd's, lld's and sundry other lathered appellations, that they are fit for nothing else in the wide world except to lug around their degrees. We hazard the statement that not even one half an inch of the curriculum of the state teachers' college requires a sure enough Ph. D. We hold no brief for the ousted instructors, but as we sit and watch much of the educational kotow, we can but expend an opinion occasionally.

Gov. Bilbo is figuring out the amount of fun he thinks he is going to have when the Knox-Inman legislative investigating committee makes its report. It is our guess that when that report is ready, the Governor will call the legislature in session.

PAINFUL INDIGESTION

"I SUFFERED a good while before I found something that would help me," writes Mr. E. W. Berry, of Neosho, Mo. "My trouble was indigestion, pains in my chest and a tight, bloated feeling that would make me feel smothered.

"Speaking of this to a friend of mine, he told me that Black-Draught was good for this trouble. I bought a package. It certainly did help me, so I continued to use it.

"I am in the transfer business, and sometimes when I would be hungry and ready to eat, I would have a call and would have to eat later. Then I would eat too much or too hurriedly. This would cause indigestion. After I started using Black-Draught, I found it did me a world of good."

LIGHTS GUIDE TRAFFIC IN BIG DE SOTO PLANT

In the big Highland Park plant at Detroit where the De Soto Six is manufactured, a semaphore light system similar to that used by big cities throughout the nation, regulates the traffic as miniature electric trains, trucks and other conveyances speed through the factory with parts of the unassembled car.

The De Soto plant, one of the great Chrysler Motor group, is a vivid picture of modern dynamic industry. Built on an area of more than 53 acres, miles upon miles are covered daily by these "material trains" over the hundreds and hundreds of thousands of feet of floor space. The signals above flash from green to red and from red to green as the operators guide them to their destinations. The building of an automobile has long since ceased to be a problem here.

This is a town within a city, the citizens - thousands of workmen - representing scores of nationalities. They ride to work in their own automobiles, eat in the company restaurants, get their letters through the company post office and when accidents occur, which is seldom because of the stringent rules concerning safety measures, are treated in the company hospital. Here is one of the most up-to-date industrial institutions in the world.

Every detail of production is planned on a scientific and systematic basis under the most modern economic conditions from the receiving stations where raw products are brought to the plant by the railways, through the various processes of manufacture and on to the final assembly line, finished cars being driven off under their own power for De Soto dealers throughout the world.

Huge trucks laden with materials are unloaded on the miniature cars in different parts of the plant. The lights and their operators guide them safely on their way, sending a car here and another there with amazing alacrity. Now they stop for the red light above and again as a speeding train winds around a curve at "full speed ahead", the automatic signal turns green for the driver and his load. Up above, however, are the huge travelling cranes here and there throughout the shops and because they are out of the way of "surface traffic", they operate regardless of what is going on below like elevated trains sweeping by though traffic may be congested in the city street underneath.

The semaphore system, after all, interesting as it may be to the man in the street unconversant with modern industrial practices in the world's greatest industry, is but a cog in the big wheel that has turned back to the buying public millions of dollars saved in manufacturing and has made possible the production of the De Soto Six with its dependability and outstanding performance at a low cost.

LATER EXPERIENCES OF JEREMIAH

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 20:1-6; 37:11-21; 38:1-13.

GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed are ye when men shall reproach you, and persecute you, and say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Being True in a Hard Test.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Being True in a Hard Test.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Standing True in Hard Places.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Forms of Modern Persecution.

I. Jeremiah in Stocks (20:1-6).

He had predicted the downfall of Jerusalem because of the disobedience of the people (19:4-14, 15).

Pashur, an officer of the temple, heard him. Pashur gave Jeremiah a cruel beating and placed him in stocks. "Stocks" was an instrument of torture, confining the legs in a cramped position. On being released the next day Jeremiah predicted the terror which was to be Pashur's portion. His words were literally fulfilled (vv. 4-6).

II. Jeremiah in Prison in Jonathan's House (37:11-21).

He was arrested by Irijah as he was about to leave Jerusalem on an errand. He was charged with deserting to the Chaldeans. While here in prison, King Zedekiah secretly consulted with him and ordered lenient treatment.

III. Jeremiah in the Dungeon (38:1-13).

1. He predicts the capture of Jerusalem (vv. 1-3).

(1) To whom (v. 1)?

Jeremiah had been taken out of the prison by the king (37:17) and ordered to the court of the prison (37:21). Here the people seem to have had free access to him (32:12). From this place of limited confinement Jeremiah announced to the people their approaching captivity.

2. Counsel given (vv. 2, 3).

a. All that remain in the city shall die by the sword, famine and pestilence.

b. He that goeth forth to the Chaldeans shall live. "He shall have his life for a prey," doubtless means that he shall escape with his life, though losing all else.

2. Jeremiah accused by the princes (vv. 4, 5).

(1) He weakened the hands of the men and all the people (v. 4). From a human standpoint what they said was true, but since Jeremiah was but the interpreter of God to the nation, they ought to have heeded his advice to surrender.

(2) This man seeketh not the welfare of this people, but the hurt (v. 4). This charge was utterly false. Jeremiah was the best friend of the people, for he faithfully proclaimed to them God's judgment and advised them how to make the best of their unfortunate situation.

3. The king's cowardly act (v. 5).

The very one whom Jeremiah was trying to help, deserted him. The king was afraid of the Chaldeans, the princes, Jeremiah, and God.

4. Jeremiah cast into the dungeon (v. 6).

This seems to have been a cistern which had been emptied of its water during the siege, leaving only mire. Into this mire he sank, possibly up to his neck. The purpose was to let Jeremiah die there. In this situation he is a type of Christ (Psa. 69). No one ever suffered more unjustly, save Jesus Christ.

5. Jeremiah rescued from the dungeon (vv. 7-13).

(1) By Ebed-Melech, an African servant (vv. 7-9).

The Jewish prophet, whom his own countrymen tried to destroy, is saved by a Gentile. Though Ebed-Melech had a colored skin, he was the whitest man in Jerusalem. He went to the king and boldly declared that the princes had done evil in imprisoning Jeremiah.

(2) The method (vv. 10-13).

The king yielded to his request and furnished a guard to prevent interference with the work of rescue. He let down soft rags and wornout garments by ropes and instructed Jeremiah to put them under his armholes and under the ropes to prevent injury to him as he was being lifted up. He was lifted out of the dungeon and permitted the freedom of the court of the prison.

IV. Jeremiah in Egypt (43:1-7).

His closing years were spent in Egypt. He was taken there by Johanan, where he continued his ministry. He seems to have been unpopular there. Tradition has it that he was stoned to death by the Jews in Egypt. The study of the the experiences of Jeremiah arouses the age-long question, "Why do the righteous suffer?" and "Why are God's most faithful servants unpopular?"

The House Was Not for Sale

By CLARISSA MACKIE

ROBIN PAGE sat on the side of her narrow bed in her hall room on the third floor of Mrs. Leeds' lodging house.

"Of all the impossible situations," she groaned, "To think that my father's daughter, brought up in luxury, should be spending her days in a horrible stuffy office and her nights in this pen—and worst of all, I cannot make my salary meet my expenses and Mrs. Leeds threatens to put me out tomorrow!"

She puzzled over this a while and then the memory of the old home, now closed and later to be torn down, haunted her. "I could go there. No one would know it, and I could come in on the trolley. Later I will get a better position—"

Deprived of home, fortune, loved ones, all in one year, Robin Page did not know how she had longed for the old place until the next day when she crept into the old house and revisited beloved spots.

There was a fireplace with a grate. The house stood back from the road among thick trees and there would be little danger of discovery. She decided that for the present she would use a kerosene stove and lamp, and when it rained she might have a fire at night in the chimney.

She worked like a beaver all that Sunday. From all over the house she brought many stray articles salvaged from the rooms, things which had been left for the ashman, but which were very precious to this bold pioneer.

Weeks passed by and no one discovered Robin's hiding place. The girl grew rosy and her eyes recovered their old hope and luster. She found another and better position and was saving a little money against the day when the house should be demolished and she would be homeless again. She was determined never to be without a home of some sort in the future, something of her own, and not the stark, forlorn boarding house substitute. Of course, she knew there was danger of momentary discovery of her retreat and hasty eviction, but she had schooled herself to meet that, and she was glad that the old Arthurs place next door, whose chimney tops she could not even see through the trees, was also closed, as the owner, Tommy Arthurs, her old playmate, was traveling in India.

"A mighty hunter like Tommy Arthurs would smell my smoke right away," she thought.

* * * * * * *

"It is good to be home again," declared Tommy Arthurs, the first night of his arrival from abroad. He had brought his old friend, Waldo Kent, out to spend the week-end with him and to decide what repairs the fine mansion needed. "I've got the Page property on my hands," remarked Kent as he lighted a cigarette after dinner. "I thought of tearing it down and putting some bungalows there, but you're next door and it might not suit you to have cottagers."

"I wouldn't," said Tommy gruffly. "I'll buy the old place from you, Wally. I used to know the Pages, and we had fine times growing up together—they're all gone now, save pretty Robin, and I don't know where she is—I must hunt her up."

"We might go over and look at the outside of it now. Though I have the keys, we wouldn't be able to see inside," suggested Waldo.

They entered the grounds and explored a little bit in the faint moonlight. Suddenly Waldo clutched his friend's arm. "There's a light up there on the second floor, Tommy. It isn't fire, either."

"That's right. No other light in the house and this one's hidden—thick curtains over the window. Tramps?"

"Maybe. Want to come along and investigate?"

Presently they were before the door of the room, where a crack of light ran along the sill. A girl's voice was talking cheerily to some one.

"Now, old gray cat, you have had your supper and I've had mine and we are both going to sit down in this comfy chair and read!" Tommy's heart quickened, for he believed he knew who belonged to that delightful voice.

It was Waldo Kent who entered without knocking. He simply put his big shoulder to the door and the ancient lock strained and gave way. So they burst in upon Robin and the cat who had come to live with her. The frightened girl jumped up and then clutched the back of her chair. These healthy young men were not lawbreakers and one face was dearly familiar. With a little cry she ran and put her arms around Tommy Arthurs. "Oh, Tommy, Tommy, it's so good to see some of the home folks again," she sobbed. Tommy flapped his free hand at the gaping Waldo. "I'll see you later, Wally. Go and look at the moon, that's a good fellow—"

Waldo stayed one hour and when he came back the two who had been reunited had only reached the point where Tommy was fitting his mother's engagement ring upon Robin's slim finger.

"We missed each other a lot," explained Tommy, "but we never knew it till just this minute!"

"Is this house for sale?" asked the real estate man.

"Never," cried Tommy and Robin together.

Mrs. H. P. Moguin, of Greenwood, is visiting her mother, Mrs. John Ladd.

Judge W. C. McLean returned Wednesday from Florida where he has been for some time looking after business.

Gen. Ross A. Collins, candidate for Governor, passed through Grenada Thursday en route to Torrance where he was billed to speak that night. Mr. Collins spoke that afternoon at Holcomb.

The following were present at the trustees' meeting held in Grenada College the first of the week: B. P. Jaco, of Winona, P. H. Dorsey, of Corinth, and W. S. Shipman, of Ruleville.

Miss Lena Elma McElwrath, who has been teaching at Hernando, is at home for the summer.

Miss Elizabeth Pressgrove returned the first of the week from Brenau, Gainesville, Ga., where she has been to school.

Messrs. P. W. Rodgers and L. E. Sullivan, of the Chapel Hill neighborhood, were in Grenada on business Tuesday and while in town had business at this office.

Mr. J. A. Roane, who has been attending school at the Gulf Coast Military Academy, is at home for the summer.

Misses Bessie Weilenman and Rebecca Canada are visiting Miss Pauline Burr for a few days before going home from college.

Mrs. Sullivan and little daughter, of Cruger, were present at the graduating exercises of their daughter and sister, Miss Ammarilla, at Grenada College.

Mr. Raymond Applewhite, of Vaiden, spent the first of the week with friends in the City Beautiful.

Mrs. H. H. Heath has returned from an extended visit to her parents at Amory.

Mrs. B. F. Thomas is the guest of relatives and friends in Natchez.

Miss Mary Gladys Brown, of Asheville, N. C., is the guest of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brown.

Mrs. W. C. McLean has returned from an extended visit to relatives and friends in Vicksburg and Winona.

Rev. R. L. Gillon and family, of Houston, Miss., are the guests of his sister, Mrs. J. P. Kimbrell. Rev. Gillon is pastor of the First Baptist church at Houston and expects to spend several days in Grenada visiting friends and relatives.

Meaning of Permutation

Permutation shows in how many positions any number of things may be arranged in a row. Thus, the letters "a, b, c" may be arranged in six positions, viz., abc, acb, cab, cba, bac, bca.

Years of service in MODEL T FORDS

THE Model T was so strongly and sturdily built that it is still rendering reliable, economical service to motorists in every section of the country. Millions of these cars can be put in shape for two, three and five more years of use at very small cost.

So that you may have this work done economically and satisfactorily, the Ford Motor Company is still devoting a considerable section of its plants to the manufacture of Model T parts. It will continue to do so as long as they are needed by Model T owners. The following list gives the approximate labor charges for reconditioning the Model T Ford:—

Engine
Tune motor (including replacement of commutator case, brush and vibrator points if necessary)	$1.00
Grind valves and clean carbon	$3.75 to 4.00
Overhaul carburetor	1.50
Reline detachable car transmission bands	1.50
Install new pistons or connecting rods	6.00
Tighten all main bearings	6.00
Overhaul motor and transmission	$20.00 to 25.00
Rear System
Replace rear axle assembly	2.50
Install universal joint	3.00
Reline brake shoes	1.50
Replace rear axle shaft, drive shaft pinion, or drive gear	5.00
Overhaul complete rear axle assembly	$5.75 to 7.00
Rebush spring and perches	1.75
Oil and graphite springs	3.00
Front System
Overhaul front axle	$4.00 to 5.00
Rebush spindle bodies and arms (both sides)	2.50
Replace or straighten spindle connecting rod	.75
Tighten radius rod or steering ball cap	.60
Tighten all sockets and joints of front end	1.50
Replace front spring tie bolt or new leaf	2.50
Straighten front axle	3.00
Chassis
Replace rear fender	1.75
Overhaul steering gear	3.50
Repair muffler	1.00
Overhaul radiator	7.50
Repaint Coupe	25.00
Repaint Sedan	25.00
Repaint Touring Car	20.00
Reupholster Runabout	8.00
Reupholster Touring Car	15.00
Replace top deck (Coupe or Sedan)	4.00
Overhaul starting motor	3.00
Overhaul generator	2.60

These prices are approximate and are for labor only, because the need and number of new parts depend on the condition of each car. The charge for these parts is low, however, because of the established Ford policy of manufacturing and selling at a small margin of profit.

Class Program Monday.

One of the most attractive features of the Grenada College commencement was the senior class day program Monday morning.

Following the prologue by Miss Evelyn Barrow, four episodes in the history of the college were depicted: 1852, 1898, 1904 and last 1929. Appropriate costumes made these scenes seem much more real and interesting.

The program closed with a farewell song sung by the other classes to the seniors, the senior response, also in song, and the presentation of the Magnolia chain to the juniors by the seniors.

TEXAS DAIRY TOURISTS VISIT GRENADA SUNDAY

Eighteen members of the delegation of Paris and Lamar and County, Texas, business men that have been making a tour of the dairy sections of Louisiana, Mississippi, and Tennessee to study dairying conditions, spent a short while in Grenada last Sunday afternoon as guests of T. B. Revell, Jr., local furniture dealer. Many of the party are personal friends of Mr. Revell's and they came here at his special invitation given them over long distance phone to Memphis last Saturday. Mr. Revell is a native of Paris, Texas and his parents reside there now.

While here, Mrs. Revell and Mrs. Joe Brown assisted in entertaining the visitors and served delightful refreshments on the lawn of their home.

The party, which is traveling in a specially chartered bus, has visited dairies and milk plants in Vicksburg, Shreveport, Jackson, Meridian, Starkville, Columbus, Tupelo, Memphis, Corinth and Fayetteville. The tour will conclude the last of this week when the party will return to Paris.

Those here Sunday as Mr. Revell's guests included R. L. Billingsley, president chamber of commerce and cashier of the American National Bank of Paris; J. H. Ratliff, Minter Texas; Tom Roach, Paris; J. B. Alford, chairman dairy division chamber of commerce and Ford dealer at Paris; B. F. Johnson, manager chamber of commerce; A. L. Hutt, assistant cashier First National Bank of Paris; Lee Caviness, Chicota, farmer and president district fair; W. E. Justiss, farmer, Howland; Dennis Elliott, farmer and stockman, Paris; J. V. Clayton, druggist, Honey Grove; Jim Maxwell, farmer and capitalist, Roxton; Edgar Cunningham, farmer, Cunningham; B. F. Johnson, Jr., page of the party.

GREENWOOD STORES CLOSE EVERY WEDNESDAY NOON

In accordance with a custom that is generally observed in this section during the summer months, the retail stores of Greenwood announce in this issue of The Sentinel that they will close every Wednesday afternoon during the months of June, July and August. The first closing date will be next Wednesday, June 5th.

Closing one afternoon during the middle of the week gives the employees an opportunity for midweek rest and recreation and enables them to enjoy many things during the summer months that they otherwise would not get to enjoy.

BANNIE HAMBY TO PREACH

The Sentinel has been requested to announce that Bannie L. Hamby will preach at the Central Baptist Church at both the morning and evening services next Sunday, June 2. Mr. Hamby's subject for the 11 o'clock sermon will be "For me to live is—what?" That evening at 7:45, his subject will be "For me to die is—what?"

Grenada is always interested in what her native sons are doing in their chosen fields and a full congregation no doubt will greet Mr. Hamby at both the morning and evening hours. A cordial invitation is extended the public to attend the services, one being always welcome at Central Baptist Church.

Party for Mrs. Prose.

Mrs. W. D. Prose was the lovely honoree at a party given Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. I. O. Pearson, Jr.

The flowers, nasturtiums and gladiolas, which were used in decorating were unusually beautiful. A color scheme of yellow and white was artistically carried out. Miniature yellow baskets filled with almonds adorned the tables. As the guests arrived delicious orange punch was served. Following an interesting four rounds of bridge, Mrs. E. A. Penn was found to have high score and was awarded a pretty vase. The honoree, who was attractively gowned in a yellow and white sport suit, was presented a slender bud vase.

The gracious hostess served a delectable salad course to the following guests: Mmes. W. D. Prose, J. C. Prose, Hubert Tatum, John Pressgrove, Earl Workman, E. A. Penn, J. K. Avent, A. R. Dockery, Ben Graham, H. T. Pope, Knox Pierce and John Huffington.

Auxiliary Has Birthday.

The ladies auxiliary of the Presbyterian church celebrated its 16th birthday with a party in the Sunday School rooms Monday afternoon, Mrs. W. D. Salmon, president, presiding. Mrs. D. N. McCleery led the devotional which preceded an effective pageant, "Our Neighbor's Needs" ably presented by Mrs. Andrew Carothers, as the Virgin, Mrs. Cowles Horton, as the Mexican woman, and Miss Jane Young, as the Woman's Auxiliary.

A free will offering, amounting to $50 was taken for two schools in Mexico. Each year at their birthday celebration, the Presbyterian auxiliaries everywhere give their offering where they feel that it is most needed. A feature of the program was a song, beautifully rendered by Mrs. F. S. Hill.

Following the pageant refreshing punch was served and a mammoth cake artistically trimmed with 16 red and green candles, the Mexican colors, was cut.

Mrs. Dockery Entertains.

Mrs. A. R. Dockery delightfully entertained three tables of players at bridge Saturday night, honoring Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Prose, of St. Louis. Lovely bowls of nasturtiums added charm to the rooms thrown open to the guests.

A delicious salad course was served the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Prose, honorees, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Prose, Mr. and Mrs. I. O. Pearson, Jr., Mrs. Nan McCormick, Mr. H. B. Cheek, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Scott, of Duck Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hill, of Elliott.

Fine Class Day Program.

On last Thursday night the senior class of the Grenada High School, under the very capable direction of Mrs. Willie May Dubard presented a most unique and attractive class day program, "The Set of the Sail". The stage was artistically decorated with pink roses and green foliage, the class colors being pink and green.

The boys and girls of both the junior and senior classes formed the processional. The juniors carried a beautiful chain of roses, symbolical of the love and friendship existing between the two classes. After telling the seniors this in song the juniors presented the chain to them. The senior response was then sung.

Miss Mary Lynn Houston delivered the salutatory. The entire class then sang a welcome song to the audience.

Sam Simmons, as class joker, provoked much amusement as did the song, "We Ain't Goin' Study No More", by the class.

As Lester McFarland, class historian, recalled interesting facts about the class, through the pages of an enormous history characters appeared representing the seniors from the time they entered school as bewildered primary children until the final goal, "seniority", was reached. The May pole dance, representing the joyful holidays during grammar school time, was especially lovely. George Perry, dressed as an imp, was a typical high school freshman. Grady Perkins, in full dress suit, with his high silk hat and cane, was the embodiment of the feeling of superiority the class attained on becoming sophomores.

Gloria Williams was a charming "spirit of joy" and gave a graceful aesthetic dance, interpreting the happiness of the class as juniors. And then the senior class in all the glory of their young manhood and womanhood, ready to set forth on life's sea better prepared because of the wonderful opportunities Grenada High School offers to all, sang their class history song.

A ship, decked in class colors, formed part of the stage setting for act two in which the class set sail. At this point Fount Barksdale, class president, delivered his message. The hopes of the class were high and their beautiful class spirit, Virginia Smith, was always with them. She gave a lovely scarf dance. Presently, however, imps of fear and depression crowded out the class spirit and in her place came an old witch, horrible to behold. Then came the imps of remorse making the senoirs want their class spirit once more. She returned to them with the old witch who was transformed to a radiant spirit of happiness. Mary Upshaw Jones' interpretation of this dual role was splendid.

Soldiers of courage, and spirits of joy and kindness were then companious of the seniors and the song, "Sailing" was rendered feelingly by the class.

Worthy of this note was the lovely dance given by Peggy Spain and Gloria Williams, as the spirits of kindness.

A heath, with three witches, Elizabeth Goza, Alethea Betz and Jewel Clanton stirring a potion in a huge cauldron, was the scene of act three. To them came the class president seeking to know his own and companions' fortunes. Elizabeth Goza, speaking for the witches, declared she would prophesy for the class of 1929 if they would all come before her. All were greatly interested in knowing what the future held in store for them.

Jessie Nail, valedictorian, gave the final message for the class to their dear alma mater, after which the entire class sang a farewell chorus.

Great credit is due Mrs. Willie May Dubard and those who cooperated with her in presenting this unusual and interesting program.

Banquet for Baseball Team.

The business men of Grenada gave a banquet Monday night at the Masonic temple in honor of the baseball team of the Grenada High School. Each boy was accompanied by his girl and the wives of some of the men who tendered the banquet were present so there was quite a nice crowd.

Prof. John Rundle presided as toastmaster in a pleasing manner. Several speeches, among them, one by captain Russell Koonce, and one by coach Happy Hathorn, added much to the evening's entertainment.

Several songs by the men's quartet, composed of Messrs. Luther Koonce, W. D. Boone, J. H. Biddy and C. F. Woodson, were also enjoyed. Miss Bertine Lott, sponsor for the team, was presented a lovely box of candy. Plans were made for organizing a summer baseball club.

Bridge Party for Guests

Mrs. J. C. Prose honored her guests, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Prose, of St. Louis, with a lovely bridge party last Thursday evening.

The house was artistically decorated with sweet peas and larkspur.

Four tables of players were privileged to enjoy Mrs. Prose's hospitality. At the conclusion of the games a refreshing ice course was served.

The guest list included: Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carothers, Mr. and Mrs. I. O. Pearson, Jr., Mrs. E. R. Proudfit, Mrs. E. A. Penn, Mrs. Robert Hall, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Neely and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Dockery.

Marquette

ON DISPLAY SATURDAY JUNE 1ST

A NEW SIX AT A PRICE WITHIN THE REACH OF MILLIONS

On Saturday, Buick will present the new Marquette—designed by Buick engineers and built in Buick factories. Marketed as an additional member of the Buick family, it will in no way affect Buick itself. Buick will continue to express the policies that made it the leader of the fine car field for the past quarter-century. ✠ In the smart, comfortable bodies of the Marquette you will recognize the fine hand of Fisher design. In its balance and poise you will see experienced engineering. And in performance—that final standard by which all cars are judged—you will find the Marquette leading its price class by an impressive margin. ✠ Be on hand when this eventful new car is shown Saturday. See what a remarkable new automobile Buick has produced at a price within the reach of millions.

Remember Soap . . .

It hasn't been so many years since you couldn't buy soap. Fact. Those who aspired to cleanliness had to make their own soap.

And then some one began a rather tentative manufacture of this thing the world had always made at home. At harvest time, perhaps, or on other occasions when folks were busy and soap ran short, they bought some—grudgingly. Ask your grandmother.

Now, persuasive illustrations and tasteful, beautiful print, combined to shout on every hand the laurels of——SOAP. And has it been effective?

Are folks still making soap at home?

Ah! the power of suggestion!

You sell some merchandise, some service, some something. But even so, are you satisfied?

Then remember——SOAP! If there is anywhere room for improvement in your business, what better means to the end desired than the power of the printed word?

Whether it's a blotter or a broadside, a bulletin or a bombard, at intervals or all the time, Call us.

From the Files of THE GRENADA SENTINEL

Sumter Gillespie, of Greenwood, was in Grenada on Wednesday on his way home from the St. Louis fair. He is the bright and genial son of J. L. Gillespie, the "ugly" editor of the Greenwood Enterprise.

The genial and popular Mr. A. O. Pearce, traveling passenger agent for the Illnois Central, with headquarters at Memphis, was in Grenada on Wednesday on business.

Misses Josie and Vera Townes, of Hardy, were the guests of Miss Mattie Phillips this week.

Dr. S. D. Scruggs of this city recently spent a day with his friend, Dr. Walton at Sardis. Dr. Walton had but recently returned from a visit to Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Briscoe, of Hardy, were in town Monday.

B. E. Moore has been awarded second prize for a window display of Pierce's goods by the World's Dispensary Medical Association of Buffalo, N. Y. The territory included Mississippi, Missouri, Kentucky and Texas, and the prize was a fine cash register.

Arrangements for the minstrel performance, to be given by a number of amateur burnt-cork artists early in June, are still in the making, and something of an interesting and amusing character is in contemplation. Rehearsals are expected to begin next week.

Mrs. V. R. James went to Leflore on Saturday for a short visit.

James Campbell has returned from St. Louis and accepted a position as bookkeeper in the Grenada Bank.

Miss Maggie Martin, of Holcomb, visited Miss Mattie Phillips last week.

Mrs. W. T. Baker, of Memphis, is a guest of Mrs. M. L. Talbert. She is accompanied by Mrs. Talbert's bright little granddaughter.

Louis Spencer Daniel, who is in the same course with Governor "Bob" Taylor, and who is a character artist of pronounced ability, gave a matinee performance at the college Monday afternoon and highly delighted a small audience.

Claim Agent Hull, of Springfield, Mo., was in the city this week, on a visit to his wife, who is a guest of Mrs. J. L. Scott.

Miss Lillian McBride, of Greenwood, is visiting at Grenada College.

Miss Long, of Leland, left for her home on Wednesday, after attending the commencement exercises at Grenada College.

Eugene Weyneth has returned from a trip to Washington, Virginia and North Carolina.

The Rev. W. S. Shipman, manager of the Methodist Orphan's home at Water Valley, spent a portion of the week in Grenada.

Column About Colored People of Grenada County

Our city school presented its valedictory last Thursday evening to a crowded house with a few of our white citizens present to witness it. A program of music and addresses was rendered by the graduating class, eleven in number, nine girls and two boys. Prof. John Rundle, superintendent of city schools, delivered the address to the class. It was plain, simple and to the point. The class was the recipient of many memory and well wishing presents. Prof. Rogers and his faculty enjoy the distinction of having wrought well in getting the results that were evinced in the closing of the school. On Friday the pupils received their grade cards and standing as their introduction to the next term.

The same faculty is elected for the next year.

The annual celebration of the Woodmen Union was pulled off last Sunday afternoon at 3:30. The headquarters of this splendid order is Hot Springs, Ark. We do not know of an organization in the south that covers the requisites fostered, and provides in their constitution and by-laws for the benefit of its members. Sick benefits, hospital service, death claims and educational facilities seem to be the object and purpose of the order. They have a splendid lodge here of some of our best citizens. Rev. J. C. McCottrel delivered a splendid sermon to the order.

Mrs. Ella Hardiman, one of our oldest and most respected citizens, graced our streets last Saturday and was shaking hands and greeting her friends and acquaintances. She had a broad smile upon her face and seemed to enjoy being at home again. She has been to Chicago and Tulsa, Okla., more than a year and a half, visiting her children who live in these cities. She is now at home with her son, S. C. Hardiman, who lives 6 miles south of Grenada. Mrs. Hardiman should be happy in these her declining years for the fact of having reared a large family of children, giving them the best home training and educating them all for usefulness in life. Her husband, Albert Hardiman, one of the best men that ever lived, died a few years ago. We hope she may live many more years to reap the full satisfaction of having added to the wealth of this day and generation.

NEGRO TRADE SURVEY MADE IN 33 CITIES

Statistics Gathered by Natoinal Organization Revealed in Report.

Tuskeegee, Ala.—The National Negro Business League, of which Robert R. Moton, principal of Tuskegee Institute, is president, and Gayoso Hardaway, rector, has just completed a survey of negro business in 33 typical cities, including Jackson, New Orleans, Mobile, Atlanta, Birmingham, Nashville, Little Rock and Richmond. The report covers 2,817 enterprises in 33 cities and is the first serious attempt to inventory the business progress of negroes.

Hattiesburg's Negro Business League, which is affiliated with the national organization, has as its president, Gayoso Hardaway, Mobile street grocer. Other officers are Dr. J. L. Randall, vice-president; Dr. Chas. W. Smith, secretary, and an executive committee composed of Dr. J. S. Love, chairman; D. T. Webster, E. W. Hall, J. R. Reed, D. W. White, and the Rev. J. B. Wheaton. Members of the local league were active in obtaining co-operation of abutting property owners in the paving of Mobile Street, now nearing completion and also in securing better lighting for the negro business district.

The population of the cities covered in this recent study is 5,066,936, of which 920,283 are colored, and 4,146,653 are white. The businesses studied are grouped under 28 classifications and represent employment for 17,697 persons. Of the 2,817 enterprises studied 1,297 are in the strictly retail business. In this group grocery stores lead with 48 per cent. of the total restaurants come second with 20.4 and drug stores 14.5. The employes number 5,444, or an average of 4.2 persons per store.

As to ownership, 2,191 of the enterprises, or 89.4 per cent. are individually owned. There are 334 partnerships or 12.1 and 109 corporations, or 3.9. Cash registers were found in 736 enterprises; 1,639 report single entry systems, 371 the double entry system, and 421 report that they keep no records at all.

In the matter of purchases 2,189 report that they buy from local wholesale stores, 1,142 of that number pay cash, while 448 have accounts with the wholesale houses. Forty-six negro enterprises are located in white neighborhoods; 1,231 report that their annual gross volume is in excess of $5,000, while 718 do an annual business above $10,000. Fifteen do an annual business in excess of $100,000. Most negro business enterprises are owned and operated entirely by negroes, although there are four white-owned and negro operated, and eight negro owned and white operated; 253 advertise in white daily papers; 1,080 in negro newspapers, and 412 used direct by mail service.

Years in business is an interesting phase of the report, 883 negro enterprises are 10 years old and over; 1,577 have been in business five years or more.

A separate study was made of negro financial organizations, including banks, insurance companies, building and loan organizations, etc. These enterprises showed a total income of $12,786,619.06, and disbursements amounting to $11,393.92. They own real estate valued at $12,164,437.95. They pay out in salaries $4,736,074.92 to 5,000 persons.

In transmitting the report, Dr. Moton said: "It is estimated that there are at least 12,000,000 negroes in America, and that 8,000,000 of them are living in 11 southern states. This means that the majority of negroes live in rather compact groups, easily accessible for business, and convenient for analysis as to trade development."

The report contains a foreword by Dr. Paul T. Cherington, well-known for his extensive researches in advertising. Dr. Cherington says of this report: "The record as a whole is a thoroughly creditable one, and deserves the thoughtful study of all who are interested in the future of this important branch of American merchandise interests.

what comes after the oratory

Frederick the Great once wrote to the Duchess of Gotha: "Heaven is on the side with the biggest battalions."

Paraphrasing this epigram, we might say that sometimes in selling cars, "Heaven is on the side with the biggest adjectives."

With the support of a heavy barrage of superlatives, even a weak car may take a customer by storm. But the real test comes after the oratorical barrage has lifted and the car must try to live up to the oratory—when it must speak for itself.

Then is the time when you are sure to find the Chrysler-built De Soto Six pointing pridefully to a record that more than substantiates every claim that has been made in its behalf, while its price-rivals are apologizing for extravagant promises unfulfilled.

Already we have abundant proof that a De Soto Six, after 40,000 miles, retains its good looks, its alert, smooth power, and its easy-riding qualities—that its low operating and maintenance costs contribute real economy of ownership. And we are confident of an equally impressive history when De Sotos shall have reached the 100,000 mile mark—and indefinitely beyond.

Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Veazey, of Coldwater, Visit College.

Among the many from abroad who came to Grenada to attend the commencement exercises of Grenada College were Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher F. Veazey and two sons of Coldwater. They have a daughter, Miss Mildred, who was voted the most popular student of the college during the session.

The writer was at the head of the Coldwater school for two years during which time both Mr. and Mrs. Veazey were students in school. They were just mere children then, but both were good students and gave evidence then of those splendid characteristics which have marked their lives since. They were reared in good homes. They were properly trained at home and got that instruction which young life always needs and which makes sure of keeping their footsteps in the straight and narrow way when in after years they must meet life's problems on their own responsibility. "Annie and Fletch", as they were generally referred to when children, are still just "Annie and Fletch" to those who knew them in the years ago. They are among Coldwater's best families, families that stand four square for the right and who can intelligently lead in the better things of life. Coldwater has long been noted for the excellence of its citizenship. There are some of the very finest people who live there. In some respects, it is a sort of a big family town. Coldwater has wealth, culture, intelligence and there is an exceptional religious spirit that dominates the life of the community.

"Annie and Fletch" are "driving on", directed largely by the characters and the lives of those who reared them. The Sentinel wishes for them life's richest and abiding rewards. They deserve the best.

Among the many who were present at the commencement exercises of Grenada College was Rev. E. S. Lewis, pastor of the Methodist church at Corinth. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and family made Grenada their home for four years while Mr. Lewis was serving this district as presiding elder, and while they have never been strangers here, Grenada people got to know them well and learned to greatly love and esteem them. Mr. Lewis is a man seriously concerned about saving human souls and is regarded as one of the ablest ministers of the North Mississippi Conference. Mrs. Lewis was reared in Grenada, being the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. DeLoach. Mr. Lewis is a member of the board of trustees of Grenada College.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Callen and their niece, Miss Daisy Leigh Roane of Grenada, Miss. and Mr. Walton Callen, Jr., left Saturday for the University of Alabama, to attend commencement. Miss Roane and Mr. Callen will attend the fraternity dances which are in progress during commencement week.—Selma (Ala.) Times-Journal, May 26.

Mrs. W. E. Callen and guest, Miss Daisy Leigh Roane, of Grenada, Miss., will motor to Uniontown Tuesday to attend a bridge party being given by Mrs. Jack DeVere.—Selma (Ala.) Times-Journal, May 26.

* * *

Mrs. J. U. Smith and two sons, James and Russell, left Thursday afternoon for Lebanon, Ky. where they will spend some time visiting relatives.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Weir and three children motored to Memphis Sunday to spend the day as guests of their sister and aunt, Mrs. O. L. Thomas. They were accompanied by Misses Birteen Lott and Hannah Ames.

* * *

Mrs. J. G. Stuckey and two children, Eloise and Jimmie, who had been for several days visiting in Amory, returned to Grenada Sunday and will remain here a few days to visit their parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cas Heath, before returning to their home in Lepanto, Ark. Cas Heath, Jr. motored to Amory to bring them to Grenada.

* * *

The wide circle of friends of Mr. W. B. Hoffa and family will regret to learn that Mrs. Hoffa's condition is not any more reassuring. She is in a Memphis hospital where she was carried two weeks ago.

* * *

Miss Bernice Lawrence is expected home today (Friday) from Greenville, Miss., where she has been teaching the past sssion. Her sister, Miss Heard, who has been instructor in Latin and French at Lake Providence, La., is expected home the next weekend. They will both doubtless remain at home through the greater part of the summer.

Genuine sympathy of the community goes out to Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Herring over the death of Mrs. Herring's father, Rev. H. M. Ellis, who passed away Wednesday at Louisville, Miss. where he was serving as the pastor of the Methodist church. Mrs. Herring was at his bedside of her father when the end came. Interment was had in Jackson, Miss., Thursday where Mr. Herring joined his wife.

The many friends of that splendid old gentleman, Mr. T. T. Hamilton, were glad to see him able to be on the streets Wednesday for the first time since his severe illness last winter.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Brewer, accompanied by their two small boys and little daughter, of Clarksdale, motored over last Sunday to spend the day at the home of their sister, Mrs. Hubert Calhoon and also to visit their mother, Mrs. Onie Brown, and sister, Mrs. W. T. McGehee, of Greenville who is ill at the Calhoon home. Mr. and Mrs. Brewer have recently erected a handsome residence in Clarksdale, and their many friends join with them in the pride they naturally feel in their new home.

night to work on this great question which had saved its millions of human lives. Another citation was that of Dr. Pasteur, who discovered the remedy for hydrophobia, one of the most dreaded of all the afflictions of the human family. He mentioned Dr. Reed of Virginia who was the first to proclain that a certain kind of mosquito was the conveyor of yellow fever, which carried away almost half of Grenada's population during the awful epidemic of 1878. It was during the Spanish-American war that Dr. Reed's theory was established, and is but another of the thousands of instances in the history of mankind where brain work had triumphed over all things. A well trained mind, Mr. Taylor evidently believes, acknowledges no master save the God who made it and to whose earthly glory it but enlarges when it triumphs over obstacles that have heretofore been regarded as unconquerable. The appropriateness and worth-whileness of Mr. Taylor's address grows on the thinking mind the more he analyzes it, and it is generally accepted as a fact that time and age never fail to improve the best things of life.

After Mr. Taylor's address, the diplomas were awarded by Dr. R. A. Clanton, secretary of the board of trustees.

The Interstate Trust & Banking Company of New Orleans has for a number of years been offering a medal for the best essay on some subject regarded as highly important to the economic welfare of the state. The subject assigned this year was, "Dairying and its enemy, the cattle tick". Quite a number competed but Miss Pauline Kilgore carried off the honor. Her paper appears elsewhere in this issue. Miss Kilgore is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kilgore of Grenada.

In the award of the Harper Lake medal to the pupil of the elementary school showing the best school spirit during the year, Mary Finney and Martha Oliver received an equal number of votes and it was decided to award a medal to each of them. Miss Birteen Lott won the E. J. Weyneth medal for exhibiting the best school spirit during the year among the high school pupils.

When the stranger inquires, "Who is the head of your city schools?" and when the answer is given, "John Rundle", a statement is made that absolutely squares with the facts. However, in stating this, it is not desired that the reader conclude that there is anything arrogant or dictatorial about Prof. Rundle. He is just the reverse. He makes himself useful in every worth while thing of the town, and he gets the name of being the "head", written in bold letters, of the Grenada schools by virtue of the fact that he knows school work and that he is vitally concerned about the Grenada schools every day in every month of the year.

Mr. Rundle has been indeed fortunate in his faculties. He and the trustees have secured the best that could be had. This paper would like to mention by name many of those who have done grade teaching in the Grenada city schools, but this would be almost one of the impossibles. Mr. Rundle has a number of teachers who have stayed with him from year to year, and among the outstanding of these is Mrs. Willie May Dubard, who presides over the hall in the high school, and Miss Lizzie Horn, principal of the elementary school.

Mrs. Dubard has a well trained mind. She knows how to command in a womanly way and therefore compels and gets that respect and consideration always accorded the cultured, refined lady. She is a most worth while factor in the Grenada schools and is genuinely esteemed by the town.

Miss Lizzie Horn started at the ground in her work in the Grenada schools. She went up step by step not because she asked any sort of promotion but because her character and her services spoke so forcibly and so eloquently of her work that she was asked to step up a little higher. She is a sacrificing character. She is untiring in her efforts and knows what she is about and the whole town regards her as a most worthy and exemplary woman.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank my dear friends for their loyalty and beautiful flowers and for the nice baskets of fruit sent me during my illness, also to Brother Farr for his prayers in my behalf and Dr. Clanton for his untiring efforts to relieve me of my suffering. May God bless each one of you is my greatest prayer.

MRS. J. T. GUM.

THE MOTH EATEN GARMENT

Come let us use our fancy,
And let us then pretend
That our spiritual life is a garment,
And let's talk as friend to friend.

Of course, you've heard of an insect
Called the moth that eats the clothes,
And the clothes he eats are unused ones,
That's something everyone knows.

At first after we've been converted,
We hunger for spiritual food
We love to go to Church meetings,
They seem to do so much good.

And oh! how we do read our Bible!
And oh! how we do love to pray,
And everything runs along smoothly
Until at last comes a day—

When our Bible doesn't seem so inviting.
Be careful, the moth has crept in;
The moth is eating our garment,
That terrible moth of sin.

And next we are losing our hunger
For the meetings where our souls are fed,
We're too tired to go to the meeting,
But go to the movies instead.

Or perhaps, we think, "No one will miss me,"
But my friend, indeed, that's not true,
No matter how small you may seem to be,
Someone was looking for you.

So the moth has eaten a large hole
In our spiritual garment and then—
We even forget to say our prayers
And that, my friend, is when—

Your garment is pretty well full of holes,
Where the moth has eaten away,
The very things that would help you most
That you loved the best one day.

Do you wish to spend Eternity
In heaven so bright and fair?
Then, my friend, I must tell you,
There are no moth-eaten garments up there.

Is your garment a little moth-eaten?
Are you forgetting your Bible to read?
Do prayers seem to you but a bother?
Then it is, my brother, take heed.

Watch out for the moth in your garment,
Keep it out by continual prayer,
Used garments are safe my friend, therefore
Use yours and no moth will be there.

market price of butter and cheese made from first grade cream and milk, and that made from poor quality cream or milk. A little care and a water cooling system that is inexpensive, only costs 6 or 7 dollars, would make possible a much better grade of cream and milk and practically eliminate the trouble of poor quality cream and milk and make it easier for the creameries and cheese plants to keep up a better price.

As evidence of what can be done in Mississippi in the dairy work Mr. Herriott, an Illinois dairyman who is running the Grandview dairy farm near Columbus, Miss., sold 6166 pounds of milk from 16 cows during the first two weeks of May. The average production per cow of over three gallons per day was made on grass supplemented by about half the amount of grain used during the winter. Milk from this herd for the first 4 months this year amounted to $1,187 while feed purchased during that time cost less than $200.00, making average cost of feed per cow per month of $3.15 and a net profit per cow of $15.35 per month.

Now Mr. Herriott states that milk can be produced cheaper in Mississippi than other states because of a longer grazing season and lower building cost, cheaper lands and greater ease of feed production.

Now for we dairymen and farmers of Grenada County I want to urge with all the force that I can that we continue to plant feed. We can plant Laredo Soy beans for hay as late as June 15th, also Say Grain and both make excellent hay. We can also plant Mexican June corn as late as July 1st and get good results and it will be far better to plant it now than to wish next winter with a empty barn that we had for the feed we raise determines the profit we are to make from our cows and the farm.

We have had some less of hogs in the eastern part of the county. The trouble seems to me to be lung worms and not cholera and the most effective remedy that I have found for this trouble is one half teaspoon full of powdered copperas per hog dissolved in swill and given once daily for about a week then twice a week until the trouble has died out or say for thirty or forty days. Any one having sick hogs I would like for you to let me know so that we may keep a close watch on this trouble and also so that should we have an outbreak of cholera we can check it before it spreads.

At any time that I can be of service to you in any way do not hesitate to call on me.

Respectfully, W. C. CURLE.
Grenada, Miss., May 27, 1929.

BUICK-BUILT MARQUETTE DISPLAYED HERE TOMORROW

Buick dealers throughout the country tomorrow are displaying the Marquette, a new Six produced and distributed by the Buick Motor Company. This car which is the ninth in the General Motors line, and which will sell in the medium price field, is offered in six models.

The Marquette is an exceptionally large car for its price class, having a wheel base of 114 inches. Prices on the car range from $[illegible] to $1035.

Buick officials say the Marquette has a remarkably quick acceleration and a maximum speed up in the seventies.

All models are designed along low swung rakish lines. The bodies are built by Fisher and finished in Duco color combinations that follow the present fashion trends. The radiator which is covered with a metal grille is deep with a narrow chromium plated rim that balances with the chromium plated hub caps. The wheels are sturdy and carry large section 28 x 5.25 balloon tires.

The Marquette has a new non-glare Fisher VV type windshield which sets at an angle and reflects all glare, whether from rear, front or sides, below the driver's line of vision.

Other features embodied in the Marquette include large internal expanding Duo-Servo four wheel brakes, an adjustable steering wheel, adjustable driver's seat, built-in bumper mountings and all chromium plated outside hardware. The soft, but durable, mohair upholstery is waterproof, impregnated under a new process with a rubber solution.

A full pressure lubricating system is used on the new car. The water cooling system is thermostatically controlled and has ample capacity to keep the engine at normal temperature under all driving conditions.

The tapered chassis is exceptionally sturdy, and together with the long semi-elliptic springs, gives the Marquette new qualities of restful, smooth riding at all road speeds.

The new car may be seen in the Imperial Motor Co. showroom tomorrow.

MRS. DUDLEY TO RESUME CHARGE GRENADA HOSPITAL

Effective the first of this week, Mrs. B. S. Dudley became superintendent of Grenada Hospital, succeeding Miss Lucille O'Neal, who resigned to accept a place with the county general hospital in San Diego, Calif. Mrs. Dudley, before her marriage to Dr. Dudley, held the same position she is taking up again and gave such satisfaction that those who were patients in the hospital while she was in charge or those who had relatives there will be glad to know that she is back again. She is a most capable woman and has few if any superiors in her line.

Mrs. Joe C. Morgan, herself a most efficient woman, has accepted a position as matron at the hospital, having charge of the young ladies in training there and seeing after the housekeeping. She will however have none of the responsibility of management of the institution but should make a most valued assistant to Mrs. Dudley in discharging her duties.

GRENADA HOSPITAL FILLED

The Grenada Hospital is pretty well filled with patients. It will be pleasing news to many to know that Mr. J. E. Carpenter, who underwent an operation some days ago is doing well. The little twelve year old girl by the name of Bradley who was shot by her older brother with another one of those "not loaded guns" at their home west of Oakland some ten days ago is doing well and is now able to be about the hospital. Lloyd Lott, who was shot Tuesday night by Mr. W. H. Crowder, by mistake, is doing as well as can be expected and it is believed that he will permanently recover.

"CHIP" BARWICK BY HIMSELF

The Commercial Appeal of last Sunday, in its automobile section, contained a very generous write-up of the "Chip" Barwick Co. The company has been for a number of years the Price-Barwick Company, but now Mr. Barwick takes over the whole concern and makes a practically new organization. His is one of the Ford agencies of Memphis. Mr. Barwick is called by his intimates "Chip"; his initials are "E. C". He is one of the two sons of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Barwick of Grenada, one of the town's most dependable and prominent families. He was reared in a home which believes in the scriptural injunction of "train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it". Thus far "Chip" has not departed from his rearing, and this paper does not hesitate to say that he will not, regardless of how old he may live to be. It gives Mr. Barwick's many friends in Grenada more than satisfaction to know that he has succeeded so well in his automobile business and the hope is indulged that his best and greatest success is yet before him.

HAVE NEW CREDIT PLAN

A new credit plan, said to save the automobile buyer 18% by actual figures, is announced in this issue by the Grenada Motor Co., authorized Ford dealers. Prospective automobile buyers would do well to consult Grenada Motor Co. about the details of the new financing arrangement which any employe of the company will be glad to explain.

"DAIRYING AND ITS ENEMY, THE CATTLE TICK"

(By Pauline Kilgore, Grenada, Mississippi)

Though the cow has been recognized as very necessary to the American home since the first settlers came to the new world, no marked progress was made in dairying until after the Civil War.

During the period from 1870 to 1890 science and invention gave us the tester, separator, thermometer, silo, and refrigerator car. The twentieth century followed with the creamery and cheese factory. Since 1900 the combined efforts of scientists, capitalists, and dairymen have made dairy progress steady, uniform, and rapid.

Because of its sunny climate, long grazing season, inexpensive grazing lands, mild winters, and ample supply of water the South is now being recognized as the most favored field for the industry. The dairy activities of 1927 centered around our own state, Mississippi, which advanced from a dairy production valued at $11,000,000 in 1925 to one valued at $20,000,000 in 1927. Her progress is shown further by the fact that her butter production per minute in 1912 was valued at 1c and in 1928 at $6.50.

Dairying is among the leading industries of our country today because of its importance in the diet; its favorable relation to agriculture; its maintenance of soil fertility; its seasonal distribution of labor; its large regular income; its stabilizing effect on agriculture in general; its supplying a large part of our meat.

Two conditions must be met, however, if dairying is to be profitable. One of these is to raise the proper breed; the other is to give the cow proper care.

The leading dairy breeds are Holstein, Jersey, Guerney, Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, and Dutch Belted. In selecting the breed consider the breed that predominates your locality, personal preference, and market requirements.

In caring for the cow consider management, feeding, housing, and safeguarding her against enemies. The cow should be managed in a regular, quiet, orderly way; fed plenty of palatable, nutritious food, in the proper proportion for bodily needs and milk production; supplied with plenty of fresh water and salt; and housed in a clean, sanitary barn.

The cow has many enemies in the form of diseases and insects. If we are to profit from dairying we must keep her free from these enemies. The one to which we shall devote special attention is the cattle tick.

The tick family is divided into many different types, but the one that proves injurous to dairying is the cattle fever tick. This parasite is the carrier of Texas fever.

The story if this insect begins with the engorged female attached to the skin of the cow. By drawing a large supply of blood from the cow this tick has increased enormously in size during the few preceding days. After becoming fully engorged, she drops to the ground and hides on the moist earth in leaves or other litter. In winter egg laying begins from thirteen to ninety-eight days later; in other seasons from two to twenty days later. The eggs are small and elliptical-shaped, about one-fiftieth of an inch long, and adhere in clusters. The body of the mother tick gradually shrinks during the egg laying, and when this mission is fulfilled, she dies. Each tick lays from a few hundred to more than five thousand eggs.

The period of incubation follows. This lasts from nineteen to two hundred days according to season. When incubation is completed, the small, oval, brown, six-legged larva tissues form the egg. It remains quiet for several days and then becomes very active and ascends the nearest vegetation.

During life in the pasture the larvae take on no food, and unless they reach an animal die of starvation. The endurance of life at this stage is very long. They have lived eight months in the pasture.

The parasite part of the tick's life begins when the larvae reach a prey. This little tick travels quickly over the hair and fastens itself to the thighs and flanks, the escutcheon, or the dewlap. It starts drawing blood and growing. In a few days it changes from a brown to a white, and in from five to twelve days sheds its skin. The new form, the nymph, has eight legs.

From five to eleven days later the tick again sheds its skin and becomes mature. The male is a brown, oval tick, about one-tenth of an inch long. He shows much activity a little later. The female is slightly larger, but is not active. After mating, she increases rapidly in size and drops from the cow from a week to twenty-five days after the second molt. Then begins the history of the next generation.

While the tick is on the cow, it is continually drawing blood from her. Blood that should have gone into the milk cells, the meat, and the fat of the cow has been taken away by this pest. This loss results in a decrease in the quantity of milk and butterfat, a decrease in weight, and in the value of the hides. The tick is the carrier of Texas fever, which is very disastrous and often results in great loss of life among herds. Thus we can readily see that the presence of ticks means a great financial loss, and if dairying is to be profitable we must free our cattle from ticks.

The territories seriously affected by the tick are sections of Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, Florida, Arkansas, Alabama, and the entire area of Porto Rico.

The campaign to eliminate the cattle tick from the United States has been conducted since 1906. When this project was undertaken nine hundred eighty-four counties in fourteen southern states were under quarantine. Much of this area, through the application of the methods of eradication, has been released from quarantine, and in many additional areas the work of eradication is well under way.

The methods of eradication have been improved from time to time to such an extent that the question of how to eradicate ticks is no longer a part of the problem. The main part of the task is to secure hearty, vigorous, and conscientious cooperation of the people.

In undertaking eradication the pest may be attacked in two locations, the pasture and the cattle. Animals may be freed of ticks by treating with a disinfectant that will destroy all ticks present, or by pasturing at proper intervals on tick-free fields. The method of applying a solution that kills the tick is the one generaly used. The pasture method is more complicated, and the necessary tick-free fields are seldom available.

In freeing pastures the method may be direct or indirect. The direct method consists of excluding all cattle from the pasture until all the ticks have starved to death. The indirect method consists of permitting the cattle to continue on the infected pasture and treating them at regular intervals with agents that are destructive to ticks, thus preventing engorged females from dropping to the ground and reinfecting the pasture. All the seed ticks which hatch from eggs already there will eventually die. Those that get on the cattle will be destroyed by the treatment, while those that fail to find a host will starve.

Ticks on the cattle may be destroyed by using a tick-destroying agent, such as arsenic. The dipping vat is the best and the cheapest means of applying this remedy. In cases of emergency, if the number to be treated is small, spraying may be advisable. This should be done very thoroughly and every portion of the body treated.

When eradication is undertaken all the cattle infected are treated every two weeks. Repeated treatment will destroy all the ticks that get on the animals before they have had a chance to mature and drop. This prevents the reinfection of the range. If the treatment is applied thoroughly to every animal, there will be renewal of the infection on the premises. The cattle will act simply as collectors of ticks which will be regularly destroyed by the dipping every fourteen days.

PAINS In Side and Back

"I had been miserable for a long time. My health was poor, and I suffered a lot from weakness. At times, my strength was so little that I could not stand on my feet. I would have to give up and go to bed. My sides and back hurt dreadfully.

"I grew discouraged, for I could do so little. I worried about myself, and almost gave up hope of ever being strong and well. I could scarcely lift a bucket of water. My housework went undone, for I was not strong enough to do it.

"After I had taken Cardui for a little while, I began to feel better. I grew stronger, soon found that I could do my work with less effort, and the pains in my back and sides left me. I think Cardui is a wonderful medicine. My health has been excellent since then."—Mrs. D. L. Bechtel, W. Main St., Salem, Va.
